First Unit of Lemon Grove Fire Equipment Arrives Here

500 Gallon Pumper Goes Into Service

Lemon Grove's new 500-gallon pumper truck arrived early Wednesday morning and after being tested by Glenn F. Dcamp, of the Fire Underwriters, was accepted by the fire commissioners.

The truck is the latest thing in fire fighting apparatus, and is equipped with fog nozzles which will create a mist so fine as to smother an indoor fire without water damage to the contents of the room.

The fire commissioners, J. Morris Mulkey, chairman, Harry Monell and Chan Mason, posed with the truck for a picture for publication on this page today.

The paid personnel of the fire department consists of Ray Carmody, James Sanchez and Charles Hamel. A. C. Anderson, a former member of the local fire commission, will be acting chief to train the three firemen.

Mr. Anderson's term expired in April and inasmuch as no one filed as a candidate, the San Diego Board of Supervisors appointed Channing Mason for the three year term.

The three commissioners serve three year terms each and an election is held every year. In case no candidate files then the Board of Supervisors makes an appointment.

The new truck is ready to answer calls, but will act as a supplementary truck to the forestry department until Acting Chief Anderson pronounces them capable of handling fires on their own, which it is anticipated will be in about 30 days.

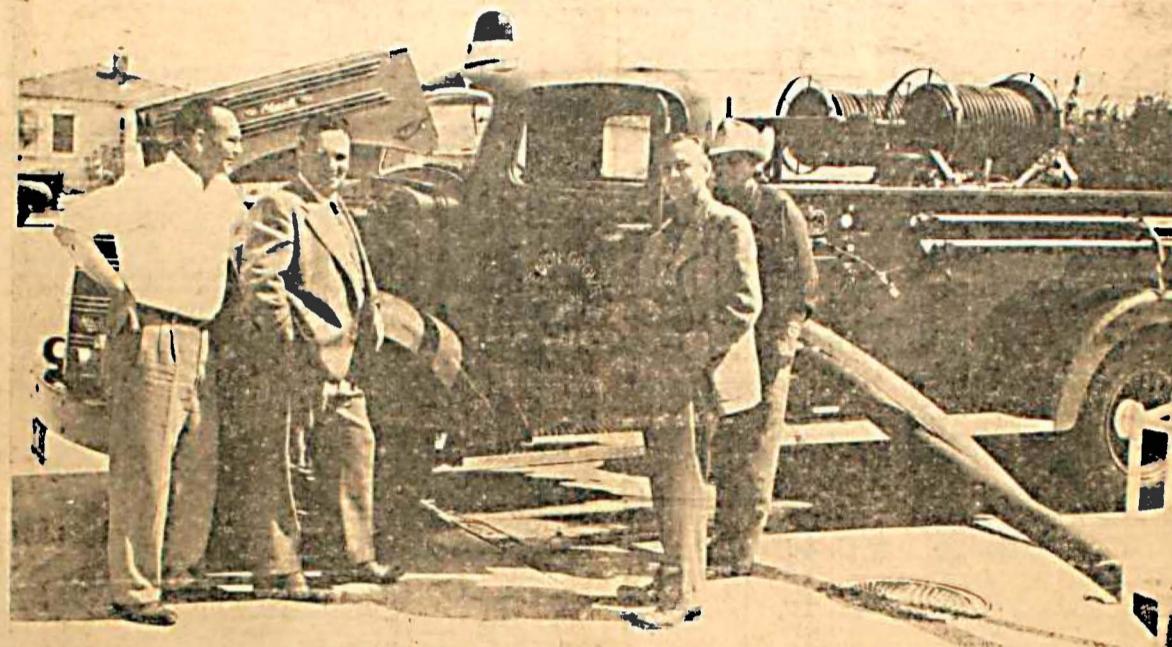

A phone will be installed at the fire station next Monday for use in reporting fires. Wide publicity will be given to this number, and it will be the one used when any person takes down their phone and tells the operator they want to report a fire in the Lemon Grove area.

The second truck, the 1000-gallon pumper, will arrive the latter part of May. Chairman Mulkey was informed by the Mack people the first of the week.

The arrival of the truck Wednesday should put at rest the criticism of the department and commissioners for the delay in

Dorman Issues Policy Statement

V. J. Dorman, candidate for re-election to the Lemon Grove Elementary School Board, has issued the following statement to the voters of the district.

The election will be held Friday, May 18, at which time one trustee is to be elected to both the elementary board and the high school board.

Voters will cast their ballots at the three schools in Lemon Grove. On page 3 appears a notice of the election, in which voters are informed as to their polling places.

Say, Mr. Dorman:

"During the four and a half years that it has been my privilege and pleasure to serve this community as a member of the Lemon Grove School Board we have seen tremendous growth and change. I am happy to say that our schools have kept pace and even been ahead of these changes.

In spite of the many inadequacies caused by our rapid community growth we have been able to provide our children with excellent educational citizenship training programs. We have been fortunate in securing and maintaining an excellent teaching and administrative staff at a cost much lower than most of our neighboring districts.

Our school enrollment has increased more than 300% in the last five years, causing a tremendous school housing problem. It has been necessary to build our district to capacity in order to qualify for state building funds.

The Board has given careful consideration to each bond election and to the tax election before calling them. In each instance the electorate, aware of the need for our children, have responded enthusiastically and favorably.

I have been impressed with the interest and devotion to the public good of my colleagues on the Board, the PTA membership and members of our civic organizations in matters concerning our schools.

It is my ambition and heartfelt desire that the children of Lemon Grove be afforded the greatest possible advantages for educational and citizenship training that we can possibly produce within our means."

Mr. Hill was presented a scroll by the Board as a token of remembrance of his public service during his years in Lemon Grove.

Open Bids on Vista La Mesa School

The Board of Trustees of the Lemon Grove School District opened bids Wednesday evening for the new additions to the Vista La Mesa School.

There were four bidders ranging from a low by Rugar and Foster of $168,257 to a high of $200,000. The job goes to Rugar and Foster, and it is anticipated that the work will start within a month.

This price is 14% higher than the estimate of one year ago, so school officials feel quite gratified at the price in the face of rising construction costs.

Unanimous co-operation in San Diego's fight to avert a critical water shortage within one year agreed on Friday at a meeting called by the San Diego Chamber of Commerce.

Representatives of City and County Government, water authority members, water distributing agencies, farm groups and the military agreed on a conservation program to eliminate waste, educate consumers in the need for co-operation and to stop illegal uses of water.

M. J. Shelton, chairman of the Water Authority Conservation Committee, presented a program of county-wide action in which he recommended development of an organization to guide a voluntary program.

Information Public

Shelton outlined an organization composed of committees representing the military, Irrigation District Association, Chamber of Commerce, Farm Bureau, County Development Association and the Water Authority to serve as an advisory body.

Information to aid in public education and general water conservation would be disseminated through an administrative assistant.

A speaker bureau would carry the message of conservation to the community level and the press and radio would be called to aid in a vast publicity campaign.

Report on Meeting

But Shelton added a note of warning: "If the voluntary conservation does not bring the desired result, then stringent rationing will be inevitable before the end of 1952."

O. P. Heald, of the Fallbrook utility district, reported on a meeting of the Irrigation District Association and passed their recommendations along to those present at this meeting.

They included correcting of present metering systems to eliminate the flat rate and un-

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the World*MacArthur Given Hero's Welcome; Divided Nation Questions Issues

AN AROUSED NATION—No one event in the recent history of the United States has caused as much comment among the people on the Main Streets of the little towns and big towns of the nation as that of the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from his commands in the far east. It was a shocked and angry nation that gathered on Main Street when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. It was a happy nation that demonstrated at the end of World War II. But it was a divided nation that questioned the removal of MacArthur!

The storm raged from grocery store to filling station, from hardware store to the courthouse. Indignation, sorrow, righteousness, worry, fear and hysteria found their way into the controversy.

The issues of civil power vs military, Europe vs Asia, the personality of MacArthur vs Truman, politics vs statecraft, all entered into the story. For a week it was violent and then the general came home for the first time in 14 years to the acclaim of a grateful and sentimental nation.

But by now the first shock and anger of the President's action had given way to considerable sober thinking. For the first time the people of Main Street got a look through the fog of personal grudges and politics at some of the deeper issues. Although it was a divided nation still, hysteria was abating. There was still confusion, but the people along Main Street were calmer.

And many of them realized that they had witnessed a turning point in history. Whether it would be for the best interests of the country and the world they could not decide—only time would tell.

THE WORLD—Although at first glance it seems a long way from the Main Streets of the small towns of the nation to Europe and Asia, the majority of the homeowners today realize we live in "one world," and for that reason they were listening to what others had to say about the MacArthur-Truman controversy.

This is some of the reaction abroad: London—"... His (MacArthur) removal was accepted as an augury of peace"; Paris—"The French feel that his dismissal is believed to be a good omen"; Bonn—"Most Germans believe that at worst General MacArthur's impulsiveness would involve the United States in a general war."

means less chance of total war . . ."; Bonn—"Most Germans believe that at worst General MacArthur's impulsiveness would involve the United States in a general war."

THE PRESS—Back of the national scene the home town press took a more temperate view of the incident than expressed by the thousands of telegrams that were received by senators and congressmen. The home town editors were concerned about constitutional rights and which is more important to world peace, Asia, as believed by MacArthur, or Europe, as believed by Truman.

A survey of 78 leading newspapers in the daily field showed this division of opinion: Truman, right, 38; Truman wrong, 26; neutral, 14. The daily press, too, was deeply concerned over issues concealed in the first blast of tempers.

THE CONGRESS—And while the Truman-MacArthur controversy raged along the Main Streets of the nation, the debate reached the boiling point in the house and senate. It can be said with all truthfulness that the dispute reached the stage where those two bodies of men, representing the people of the United States, stripped themselves of what little dignity remained after three years of bickering over domestic and foreign issues.

The debate, for the most part, was along party lines with the Republicans backing MacArthur and the Democrats plugging the President. Both sides hurled the label of "war party" at the other. There were indications, however, that the two parties might get together for a sweeping investigation of the administration's far eastern policy.

ANOTHER LONG WAIT—While the nation talked of the Truman-MacArthur controversy, the house passed its version of a draft bill. But the mothers and fathers in the small towns of the nation appear in for another long wait before they learn the fate of their sons.

The measure now goes to a house-senate conference committee that has the senate version of a draft. The conferees face a long and hard struggle to work out a compromise. Long-range training features of the two measures pose the greatest obstacle to quick agreement. There are, however, numerous other conflicts that will require time to adjust.

At the moment it appears very likely that a compromise bill might not become law much before July 9, the expiration date of the present selective service act.

FARM MACHINERY OUTPUT—The long-awaited cutback in farm equipment output is expected during the next three months. Industry spokesmen reported, with production of about 75 per cent of the industry's capacity. Production of farm tractors for the first quarter of this year was higher than in 1950, but material shortages are expected to reduce schedules.

From January through March, 152,200 farm tractors were produced. In the corresponding months of 1950 the total was 147,972 units. The increase was attributed to use of materials stockpiled during last fall's strikes. Accumulated materials have been used up, however, and manufacturers are having difficulty securing quantities to keep pace with production schedules.

DEFENSE JOBS GO BEGGING—The people of the home towns of the nation are not rushing into defense jobs as fast as some government agencies desire.

Robert C. Goodwin, director of the bureau of employment security, reported that 50,600 unfilled jobs clog the rolls of state employment offices as the nation's defense program shifts into second gear.

The unfilled jobs are for workers in professional, managerial, skilled, service, clerical and sales, semiskilled, and unskilled fields. Thirty-six states reported openings.

DECISION SOON—Since March 5, when deputies of Great Britain, France, Russia, and the United States began meetings in Paris in hope of agreeing on an agenda for another foreign ministers' conference, the people in the home towns of America have waited patiently for an announcement that perhaps the big four could get together.

A decision should be reached any day now and the democratic nations believe the Soviet Union will agree to the conference. U.S. diplomats believe the Russians will agree for three reasons: (1) To stall, or at least put a brake on the accelerated defense programs of the free nations of the Atlantic alliance; (2) To exploit and widen whatever difference may still exist among the western powers and to divide them on important policy issues, if possible; and (3) To use the proposed conference, bound to be one of the most widely reported events in recent history, as an organ of propaganda for Soviet "peace aims."

FARM SECURITY TAXES—The first social security tax and information returns for farm and household employees, together with payment of taxes, was due on or before April 30.

The social security tax and information return covers the quarterly period of January, February, and March, 1951. The farm and household employees involved those who were brought into the federal old-age insurance system on January 1.

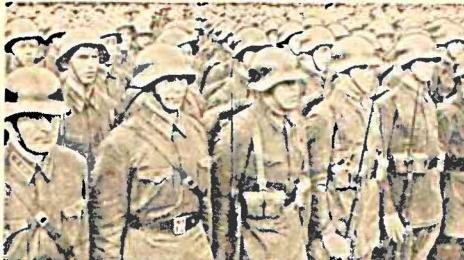

Whether or not a farm or household employee's wages are subject to the taxes depends on the number of days worked for the employer and the amount of cash earnings. If in doubt concerning taxes due, farmers are urged to see the nearest internal revenue collector at once.

Without attempting to make any invidious comparisons, a number of historic parallels to the MacArthur case became apparent from a quick glance at the records.

There is a superficial resemblance, for instance, between the firing of MacArthur by President Truman and Calvin Coolidge's dismissal of the late General "Billy" Mitchell for defying orders. Mr. Coolidge made it clear, however, that he was in sympathy with the cause of aviation which Mitchell

THE GREAT CONTROVERSYHistory Shows That the Symptoms Underlying MacArthur's Dismissal Have Existed for Many Centuries

By W. P. SCHOENTGEN
WNUN Managing Editor

There is a kind of universality about Douglas MacArthur that communicates itself to many men, something of the same stuff that leads nearly everyone to believe in his own heart that he can run a nation and play Hamlet with a deathless genius.

Was MacArthur right or wrong in his belief in the strategic priority of Asia, the bombing of Manchuria, the utilization of Chinese Nationalist forces?

Did he, in his public and private rejection of administration and United Nations policies in the Far East, express a subconscious desire to achieve "martyrdom" for his principles?

Did President Truman take the right action but at the wrong time in relieving MacArthur of his military command?

It doesn't make any difference who you are — you undoubtedly have your own strong, definite and perhaps impassioned answer to each of those questions. And according to your answers, you align yourself on one side or the other of the MacArthur controversy—the great American schism of 1951.

It is a basic division, a schism of the soul and spirit; and the rock upon which the split has occurred is a military man, a soldier, yes, even a 71-year-old general.

MILITARY MEN'S DRAMA

That in itself is not unusual. It is, in point of fact, a fairly sound historical tradition that great epochs of man's development are likely to turn upon the personality of a military leader, probably because it is easy for the public to focus its attention upon a man who can be identified with the drama of danger and physical action, and with the glamour of military triumphs.

General MacArthur follows vigorously in that tradition. It has been his peculiar destiny to help lead this nation in smiting tyranny both right and left within the past decade, striking to the right at Japan and to the left at Communist efforts at domination in Korea and the Far East.

Thus he has become a political symbol, having stood at the spearhead of America's often inept and fumbling but always intense desire for peace that patently will not be had for the asking but which may come if we fight hard enough for it.

Whether the principles he has advanced are right or wrong, it is MacArthur the symbol, not MacArthur the man, around which the real, very real, very basic foreign policy quarrel has gathered.

From that point of view, the MacArthur controversy is an old and elemental form of domestic strife that has occurred and reoccurred within this or that national community ever since man has been able to formulate and defend an opinion.

CONTROVERSY, THEN, TOO

That stirred up a great civil controversy in Rome, too. Was Caesar right in his principles and policies concerning the Roman empire, or were the men who deposed him by lulling him right? It might be argued that Rome, under Caesar, reached its peak of dynamic expansion and that its decline began after Caesar's death in 44 B.C. But regardless of the truth of that position, the split over the aims and policies of Julius Caesar marked an epochal turning point in the history of the Roman empire.

Scotland's immortal Robert Bruce was the storm center of a raging controversy much of his life, while he held to and fought for the cause of aviation which Mitchell defended. He settled that issue himself, however, by decisively defeating the English forces under Edward II at the battle of Bannockburn in June, 1314, and assuring the continuance of Scotland as an independent kingdom.

Every student of American history knows of the quarrels and differences of opinion that flared after President Abraham Lincoln put General Grant in charge of the Union armies. Some members of Lincoln's own cabinet not only refused to support but actively opposed Grant's appointment.

It was, in a sense, a MacArthur situation in reverse.

Grant's Problem

And when Grant took command in March, 1864, he found he had to fight not only the enemy but the torpor and passivity of his own generals in the field. The military issue at stake that time was whether or not Meade, Hooker, McClellan and others in the string of Union Generals were right in fighting a defensive war, avoiding battles whenever possible, and choosing more often to retreat than to fight.

Grant favored action and offensive contact with the Confederate armies. Over the protestations of his subordinates, he decided to attack wherever possible and carry the war to the enemy.

The ultimate surrender of General Lee and the Army of Northern Virginia at Appomattox proved the rightness of Grant's strategy. But Grant, who went on to become President of the United States, albeit not an especially popular one, remained the center of a maelstrom of violent opinions all his life.

So the MacArthur story is by no means a new one. Call his actions and utterances in Korea insub-

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE -NOT GOOD FOOD

Here's the secret millions of folks have discovered about FEEN-A-MINT, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Here is how FEEN-A-MINT's action is so wonderfully different:

Doctors say that many other laxatives start their "Gut-clearing" action too soon, too early. The stomach is too full of food to be digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, dash away nourishing food you need for health and energy. You just waste! Waste!

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel when it removes any waste, not the stomach. You get the typical FEEN-A-MINT "worn-out" feeling and feel your "peppy" energetic self! Get FEEN-A-MINT! No increase in price—still 5¢, 50¢ or only 14¢.

dition, or call them an honorable defense of his own principles, they have basic meaning for us as a dramatic illustration of the grim fact that the United States has to choose between two basic and different courses in this battle against the evils of communism.

One way is going to be right, the other wrong. We say that the nation, in its collective mind, has split over the issue of which is the best way to deal with Communist aggression in the Far East.

But it is not, it cannot be, a fatal split. The doubt that has been lurking behind our thinking and our attitude on the question of how best to fight the monstrosity of world communism has been brought plainly into the open and is clearly defined.

There is no longer an reason for anyone—be he statesman, military man, farmer, storekeeper or factory worker—to deny the existence of that doubt. Now it can be talked about and it can be eliminated.

That is the great service that President Truman and General MacArthur have unwillingly performed for the nation and the free world. They have managed to get all the cards on the table.

The answer, still to be found, is there somewhere.

MacArthur's Father Had Troubles, Too

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's father, Gen. Arthur MacArthur, embroiled himself in a bitter dispute with civilian authorities 50 years ago when he was military governor of the Philippines Islands, which the U.S. had just acquired from Spain.

William Howard Taft arrived in the islands as head of a presidential commission charged with establishing a civilian government in the Philippines.

Although President William McKinley was under heavy pressure in Washington to establish a civilian government as soon as possible, Arthur MacArthur's command took the point of view that only the army could do a proper job of restoring order and control.

When Taft arrived, MacArthur coldly refused to see him.

CAPITOL-COUNTY

News Letter

BY ASSEMBLYMAN RALPH R. CLOYED

California's Official Song became a cause by the action of the state legislature.

"I Love You, California," the song, (so the story goes) was first introduced by Mary Garden in 1913. While sitting on a white horse, she sang it for the legislature and 10,000 citizens who had gathered to watch the performance on the capitol grounds. Pigeons that were being released from the capitol dome flew down and alighted on the horse.

A bill before the legislature at that time would have made "I Love You, California" the official song but it was defeated by one vote cast by Assemblyman Young, then speaker of the Assembly who later became governor of California. Hence it took 38 years to get one vote to adopt an official song for the state.

His bill was introduced to ban secondary boycott in labor disputes was sent to the floor of the Senate by the Committee on Labor. The measure, S. B. 1228, by Hatfield, would declare these practices contrary to public policy. The committee room was filled with businessmen and dairy farmers and many more were in the halls of the capitol while the bill was being heard in the committee. The witnesses testified that they could not dispose of their milk because the drivers would not handle it, although their workers had no desire to become unionized.

A groceryman from Chico said, "Pickets were placed in front of my store because I was selling milk from a creamery listed by labor as unfair." They withdrew the pickets after he discontinued the product. The bill was strenuously opposed by C. J. Haggerty, Secretary of the State Federation of Labor, who asserted that the legislation was too broad and was one-sided in favor of the employer.

MEAT CUT QUIZ

Q. What is the name of this cut of meat?

A. American leg of lamb.

Q. Where does it come from and how is it identified?

A. As the name implies, it is the leg of lamb, corresponding to the round of beef. For this style leg, the meat is peeled back from the shank, then the bone is removed. The meat from the shank is tucked back under the fold and pinned in place.

Q. How is it prepared?

A. By roasting. It is placed skin side down on a rack in an open roasting pan. No water is added. The leg is roasted in a 300°F. oven allowing 30 to 35 minutes per pound. A roast meat thermometer inserted in the meat before cooking will register 175°F.-180°F. when the roast is done.

CLEM WHITAKER, Jr.

Lobbyists, the little-known, but highly-potent type who work for the Executive and on the Legislative branch of government, were very much in the lime-light both in Sacramento and Washington, last week.

In the Nation's capital, Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing was caught up from Congress for his propaganda activities in behalf of socialized medicine. The House of Representatives, obviously irked at the lobbying activities of Mr. Ewing's agency, voted to slice $225,000 from the operating funds for his Washington office and then approved an amendment barring the use of any FSA funds for "publicity or propaganda" activities not carrying the congressional seal of approval.

Congressional observers thought it unique that during the course of the legislative and verbal assaults, not a Democrat or a Republican rose to the defense of Ewing.

In Sacramento, too, administrative lobbyists were brought under public scrutiny. An assembly bill has been introduced in the State Legislature to bring lobbyists for the State Administration, its agencies and bureaus under control similar to that already exercised over professional lobbyists for business, labor and agriculture.

The California anti-propaganda by government employees measure, at first given little chance for passage, was being given a new look in lights of some plain and fancy footwork by Administration spokesmen to scuttle the bitterly-controversial hot cargo measure.

After the Governor had made known his opposition to the hot cargo measure, administration forces swung into action. While supporters of the bill readied arguments for presentation to one committee, the measure was suddenly shifted to another, allegedly of a much less favorable attitude. The bill's supporters (representatives of agriculture and business) state the Governor wanted to see it sidetracked in committee and forgotten; they figure his supporters have sidetracked it, without question—but state it is not forgotten!

Talk going around the capitol corridors now is that supporters of the hot cargo bill may switch their attention to support of the measure regulating the lobby activities of governmental employees. If that measure could be passed, the irate hot cargo bill advocates (already stridently regulated themselves) figure they'll be in stronger position for another try.

All in all, it was a tough week for governmental lobbyists—a week that has brought their little-reported activities into the open for all to see and ponder.

Sparks
FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT
JAMES DORRIS

Probably the most fascinating reason that anyone yet has offered for having joined the Communist Party was Hollywood actor Marc Lawrence's explanation last week to the House un-American activities committee that he became a Party member "to get to know the names more."

Lawrence's reason for leaving the Party was interesting, too. He quit, he testified, because the high-brow speeches gave him headaches.

A great many ex-Reds these days are publicly confessing their past sins, relating in detail why they joined and why they quit. But apparently it isn't always possible to quit. According to a news story appearing in a recent issue of the People's World, the Communist Party seems to feel that it is presumptuous for a Party member to resign.

The People's World story concerned one, Bernie Roberts of Los Angeles, and his wife Esther Roberts. When Roberts, once an active Communist, announced a few weeks ago that he was resigning from the Party, the Party would have none of it. The Los Angeles Communist County Committee informed him that "his resignation would not be accepted and that he would have to answer for his acts."

Mr. Roberts, however, "persistently refused to discuss the matter or attend hearings." As a result, the County Committee expelled him—and made it very clear that he hadn't been allowed to quit.

The circumstances surrounding Mr. Roberts' estrangement from the Party are as intriguing as any Hollywood scenario. In the County Committee's announcement of the Roberts expulsion, as reported by the People's World, it is asserted that "Bernie and Esther Roberts stand exposed as anti-working class and anti-party elements of the worst sort, who merit contempt not only of all Communists but also of all decent unionists and other progressives."

What did these "worst sort elements" do? Did they raid the Party treasury to play the horses? Did they murder other Party members for profit? Were they heard humming tunes composed by some purged Soviet musician?

No. The Roberts' crime was that, as owners of a small lamp company, they fired one of their employees. Mrs. Roberts even "worked as a scab in her husband's factory." But let the County Committee communiqué explain the whole gruesome situation:

"Roberts himself was at one time an active union worker and went through experiences which should have instilled in him a deep class hatred for the bosses and their tactics. However, Roberts made the choice of abandoning his class position and seeking to advance himself individually at the expense of his class."

Come the Revolution, it's obvious that the first books to be burned will be those of Horatio Alger.

Most poultrymen know how to tell a cull from a heavy producer. Too little culling is done because some poultrymen won't risk "killing" their judgment, but far more culling clusters will mature from 55 to 65 days. Mature fruit from this treatment is generally larger than natural set, is largely seedless, and is of good quality.

Culling isn't hard. Cull at least once a month. Go into the houses at night when the birds are on the roost and use a strong flashlight. Poor layers, as well as non-layers, can be spotted by certain physical characteristics, such as "crow heads," pale, shriveled, scaly combs, yellow beaks, yellow legs and clean feathers. Poor layers and culls usually show little activity and are often found on the roost during the day.

When the flashlight method of culling is used, the entire flock setting with doesn't have to be handled. It is a good idea to go over all the birds removed more carefully and not confined to the open clusters states Hall.

Growers wishing further information may obtain a bulletin on Tomato Fruit Setting with instructions on how to handle it.

Scientists Say There Is No Such Thing As an Average Lifetime

The belief of Biblical times that "three score and ten" is an exceptionally long span of life is being revised by modern scientists. Today the average span of man's life in advanced nations is approximately 65.5 years, and it is gradually rising.

Mankind has been able to more than triple his life span since primitive times. Eighteen was considered an old age in the days of the caveman. The upper class Roman was lucky if he lived beyond 22. In 1850 the average life span on this continent was 41 years. Now, it has advanced to almost 65 years.

Research workers are now suggesting that the human life span could be lengthened to 120 years within a decade by increasing our "know-how" in nutrition, medicine, chemistry and other factors entering into a good living standard.

A new national foundation for anti-aging research has been established in the United States with the aim of obtaining at least $4,000,000 (a fraction of the cost of making one atom bomb) for research in the new science of gerontotherapeutics (prevention of old age).

In recent years scientists have stated there is no such thing as a "natural lifetime." Dr. Henry S. Simms of Columbia University has observed that if the human body could retain throughout the years the ability it possessed at 10 years of age to resist disease and repair breakdown, "man would have a life expectancy of 800 years and some individuals might survive 22,000 years."

When plastic table covers get too scratched or torn to be used for scratches, they can be cut down to make good aprons, or sheets for wrapping refrigerator foods.

To remove excess fat from hot soup, wrap a piece of ice in a small piece of cheesecloth and run it over the top of the soup. The excess fat will congeal and collect on the cold surface of the cloth and is thus easily removed.

HADACOL BRINGS RELIEF TO FOLKS SUFFERING ACHE AND PAINS

When Due To Lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Niacin and Iron In Their Systems!

Mrs. Homer Hanes, Route 1, Newport, Ohio: "I have been having pains for a time. I took three bottles of HADACOL and now my pains don't bother me. I feel good now, I could hardly do my housework before, but now I can get my work done good. I got a job at the American Pottery and really don't feel tired at the end of the day. I can sleep good at night now. Thanks a million for HADACOL. I wouldn't be without it."

Hardy Holmes, 1020 Empire Street, Joplin, Missouri: "Before taking HADACOL I had pains and I would suffer with aches after eating. My energy was low and I had a run-down feeling. After I started taking HADACOL I got almost immediate relief. I don't have my pains any more and now I can eat anything and even drink coffee without the discomfort of heartburn. Thanks to HADACOL I am sleeping and resting better at night and feel better generally. This is worth gold. My wife also took HADACOL and got wonderful results."

WHY HADACOL GIVES SUCH WONDERFUL RESULTS

ACT NOW—HADACOL is not a quick-acting pill which gives symptomatic relief—HADACOL gives such remarkable results because it actually relieves the real cause of aches and pains when due to lack of Vitamins B₁, B₂, Iron and Niacin in the system. And continued use of HADACOL not only helps give continuous, complete relief but also helps prevent such annoying pains from coming back. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days!

Mrs. Lula Nelson, 1702 E. 63rd St., Los Angeles, Calif.: "I was run-down, couldn't sleep at night, had aches and pains and with seven children to care for I couldn't get my work done. After three bottles of HADACOL I felt so much better I could do more work than ever before. I've been taking HADACOL ever since and feel so good. I now give it to my children and it has helped them, too."

Edward Jakubowski, 1622 N. 75th Court, Elmwood Park, Ill.: "For awhile I was bothered with aches and pains and felt run-down after a long cold that just seemed to hang on. One day one of the other drivers suggested I start taking HADACOL. So, I bought a bottle and started taking it. It has relieved my pains; they've almost completely disappeared, and no longer prevent me from sleeping well. This was three years ago when I took my first bottle of HADACOL. I still continue to take it and have recommended it to many of my friends."

HADACOL comes in special liquid form so that it's quickly absorbed and assimilated by the blood. A big improvement is often noticed within a few days. Buy HADACOL today.

The cake formed the base for a replica of an engagement ring.

Water Must be Saved Now to Avert Crisis

Continued from page 1 metered areas, raising of rates as an effective means of reducing water use and cooperation among farmers in passing along water saving methods to their neighbors.

Ed Lindley, of the County Farm Bureau, pledged full support to the program by farm groups.

Capt. John R. Johnson, representative for Rear Adm. Wilder D. Baker, 11th Naval District commandant, outlined the program adopted by the Navy to reduce waste of water and voluntary conservation.

Since October, Johnson said, the Navy has reduced waste by 28 percent and will do even better in the future.

Sees O. K. For Aqueduct

Johnson also injected an optimistic note into the meeting when he said reports from Washington indicate that construction of the second barrel to the aqueduct is not too far away.

"I won't guarantee anything, but the policy of the Navy in regard to the aqueduct has changed course 180 degrees," he said.

Fred A. Heilborn, water su-survy chairman, outlined the water problem faced by the county and cited these reasons for the shortage:

1-Increase of military and defense population from 61,000 last September to 123,000 at the present time.

2-Continued drought.

3-Accelerated rate of new home construction, now 60 percent ahead of construction for the first 4 months in 1950.

Under present drought conditions and a rapidly expanding population, San Diego County has been warned that water supplies will not meet needs in 1952 unless methods are taken to conserve immediately.

But many organizations in the city and county are not waiting for the program to begin their conservation methods. The Navy has planned a pleasant surprise for the members and guests for their dinner meeting in the church on Friday, May 11. Men are asked to reserve that date and make plans to attend.
